RPC and COVID-19 - A Message to Our Clients

As you are aware, Premier Blaine Higgs has declared a State of Emergency in New Brunswick in response to the COVID-19 pandemic. RPC is taking its direction from the Government of New Brunswick, including the Chief Medical Officer of Health.

As of March 16th, employees who can work from home, were asked to do so. We have also asked some who are able to work to remain at home on standby. These efforts are to reduce the number of people out in public and in our facilities and allow us to sustain operations for the long run.

For today only, March 20th, we will not be accepting any samples at reception.

Starting Monday, March 23rd, we will be limiting the hours that our reception will be open to the public. We will be accepting emergency samples ONLY from 10am – 12pm, Monday to Friday. Clients may need to ring the doorbell for assistance and will be asked to follow social distancing protocols as per the provincial government guidelines. We will accept payment by debit or credit card, however we will not be accepting cash.

Please be patient with us during this time. We are taking other protective measures with our facilities, checking with our supply chain and being proactive to protect the health of our employees while continuing to sustain operations.

Thank you for your understanding. We wish you, your families and your employees good health during these challenging circumstances.

Sincerely,

Eric Cook, P.Eng., ICD.D
Executive Director/CEO
